Chartered Psychologist

NLP Technician.

This course builds on the NLP Communication module, and introduces some of the more technical patterns within NLP. On completion of this more advanced module you can join the UK based Association of NLP as a "Professional member". This means not only do you have a suite of NLP skills and knowledge which match recommended ANLP qualification experience at the level of practitioner, (50 hours and 6 days), but you can practice NLP as a "Professional Member" of the ANLP using their logo. You can do this using the International Association of NLP Institutes logo as well, (ANLP partners), in your marketing materials and on your commercial website. This course is accredited externally by the International Association of NLP Institutes. Bruce is an Ambassador for the ANLP in the Cambridgeshire region of the UK and an Ambassador for the International Association for NLP Institutes in the UK.

WHAT WILL I ACHIEVE BY BECOMING ACCREDITED IN NLP WITH BOTH BRUCE GRIMLEY AND THE INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF NLP INSTITUTES?

Bruce is proud of being different, and he is different, because he is one of only a handful of Master NLP trainers internationally, who is also a practicing chartered and licensed psychologist and Dr of psychology.

YOUR NLP TRAINING WITH BRUCE WILL BE DIFFERENT TOO

By completing your NLP training with Bruce you become accredited by the International Association of NLP Institutes, one of the largest NLP organisations in the world. The quality of your training means you can join the ANLP as a professional NLP member and enjoy all of the benefits that brings, including offering your own professional NLP services under the ANLP banner. This is because the 80 hours of training you undertake when you pass your I.N. NLP Technician course is greater than the ANLP recommended 50 hours of face to face training to pass at NLP practitioner level, and of course covers all the relevant content.

Because NLP started by modelling professional therapists, many of the NLP patterns and pre-suppositions, take you very deep, very quickly. These courses are not a substitute for therapy, however you will have an experience at a profound level of who you are, how you are structured, and what you can do to change.

You will get to work with Bruce 1:1 and you will learn how to set goals that excite you and bring your world to life.

You will also understand how the human experience is structured and how we operate at both a sensory level and a linguistic level, and how these levels are often combined and exist at an unconscious level, often creating the illusion that we cannot change.

Because we start off at the beginning at a personal level and ask you what do you want to change in your life, you will get to experience how NLP patterns can change you at an individual level. This means by the end of 10 days of training with Bruce, in some contexts of your life you literally will be a different person.

More importantly you will understand and have the skills to know how to create that desired difference which makes a difference within both yourself and other people, for the future and after the course.

You will also be eligible to become a member of the ANLP, (professional member if you do the Technicians course), and a member of the International Association of NLP Institutes, with a lifelong free membership and an opportunity to create your own free of charge NLP members profile on the I.N. Website.

If you are interested in the psychology of NLP, Because of the high quality of this training it may be recognized as ECTS credit points in academic studies in psychology with a focus on NLP. For those of you who are academically minded and want to know the difference between NLP and Psychology you can click here.

Finally you get personalised email and video conference support from Bruce during the course and also after the course when you put your new skills into practice.
